[44 : 00] Psalm 103, verse 12.

Psalm 103, verse 12.

Psalm 103, verse 12.

As we approach the Lord's table, there's no need for me to warn the unworthy or to deter any who may be thinking of coming to the table.

So, fencing the table is an old Scottish legal term for constitutioning a coat.

[46 : 22] and it was in that sense that Melech Rutherford used the word fencing the table with regard to the Lord's Supper and the idea is surely a very beautiful one that the court of King Jesus is now constituted and Christ is holding court here this morning, this royal court and he has not only invited all his subjects to come and sent out a general summons but he has actually issued a royal command that every single one of his subjects should be here this afternoon and there is no believer in the world there is no believer in Kinloch or in Lewis who is exempt from the authority of that command every single one of us is commanded by the King to come to his court and to this feast on this particular day and if I would like to upset anybody this afternoon it is those believers who are not here or who are not at the Lord's table because they are living in defiance of the orders of their King a neglecting one of his own means of grace and I fail to see how living in such defiance they can expect the divine blessing

I assure you there is absolutely no merit ever in staying away from the Lord's table it is not something of which any of us ought ever to be proud because if we are the Lord's then we are commanded to be at his table now Melancthon the associate of Martin Luther way back in the 16th century he said that to know Christ is to know him and his benefits and we are coming to the Lord's table in order to get to know him that is in order to get his benefits and those of you who know your catechisms will remember how it analyzes and enumerates those benefits which accompany your flow from those great graces of justification adoption and sanctification when we are effectively called to Christ we know his benefits we are justified and adopted and today at the table we are not going to be any more justified or any more adopted than we were before we came because those graces are absolutes and

Augustus taught that he was quite right when he said more happy but not more secure the glorified spirits in heaven you are as righteous as the saints in glory you are as justified indeed as the Lord Jesus Christ himself and you are as much members of God's family as God's eternal son and the Lord's Supper does not add to that security or to those securities in any way but it is of course a great sanctifying ordinance and we come here for our souls to be fed because it's a supper it's a meal it's a feast we have come to feast of the pascal lamb the Lord Jesus Christ and yes there are bit of herbs and often we in our culture have tended to emphasize that fact the bit of herbs of our providence and of our suffering but remember there is wine here too wine that makes glad the heart of man and so it's a festal occasion it's a feast that's what we're going to have a feast on the pascal lamb and let our hearts be glad it's joy when the house of God go up they said to me in our dwellings as heard the sound of joy and health and to remind you of those benefits which accompany your flow from justification adoption and sanctification what would I like you to get here this morning this afternoon

I would like you to get assurance of God's love peace of conscience joy in the Holy Spirit increase our growth and grace and perseverance and grace to the end that's what we're here for and of course that's what those who are not coming to the table are depriving themselves of and I hope that as you take the bread and as you take the wine that you will indeed come to remind once again that and how much God loves you that his peace will flood your hearts that his joy will fill your souls and that you'll feel his strength pouring into your spirits so that you will rise saying

I can do all things in the one who strengthens me we shall now sing to God's praise for the elders begin the symbols of the body and blood of the Lord Jesus Christ we shall sing in the garlic Psalm 118 and we shall sing from verse 17 two stanzas to God's praise two verses to God's praise föstate one three two é yes you ak ■■■■■■ and
